

Homework

- You are invited to view this short tidbit on grace by Thomas Keating wherein he reminds us that the energy of grace can suffuse us in times of suffering as well as joy. It is 1 ½ minutes in length.
- Are you able "to sense the immensity of the love that seeks to meet us at the crossroads of the Now, when we yield ourselves into it?" Perhaps in a period of Centering Prayer we can know as truth in living time. If this occurred once, can it be that it is always available if we allow ourselves to be disposed to it?
- St. Thérèse of Lisieux once famously said, "Everything is a grace." Can you recall even one difficult point in your own journey that you ultimately came to view as a grace? If so, can you go even further and surmise that current sticking points could also be a grace?
- What would it be to abide in awareness of grace day-by-day-by day? If not abide, then attuned.

Commentary on Habits.

Everything repeats as winter and summer. If you remain the same, you will experience the same.
